MORGAN COUNTY.

Grassy Creek Grist.

I will first offer my excuse for my long absence from THE HERALD. I have been sick ever since last December, and a great portion of the time confined to my bed, but through the mercies of an all-wise Creator I am once more able to be out, but not well. I hope I will be able to work for THE HERALD, for I am satisfied it has done more for the mountains of Kentucky than any other paper, therefore I think the people of this section should patronize it, which I intend to try to induce them to do if my health will admit.

I wish to state in your valuable paper for the benefit of the sick that I have been using a mineral water that has done me more good than all the medicine I could get. This water seems to act on the liver, blood, kidneys and stomach. It can be found on the farm of Mr. Claypool, two and one-half miles from Maysville, Ky., and is free for everybody who wants to use it. There is no question but what it possesses some great medical qualities.

The stock of goods at this place, belonging to Wm. Toliver, was sold last Saturday to the highest bidder. S. E. Hays was the purchaser, and sold them to some of his Goodpaster & Stamper, who will commence selling goods at once in the house recently occupied by Toliver.

Rev. Leander Lyle will commence a protracted meeting at the church house, near James A. Rose's, on Friday before the first Sunday in August and will continue until Sunday, at which time Rev. H. Little will be with him to preach the funeral of Mrs. S. W. Havens.

K. H. Murphy, Cyrus B. Perry, Wm. Yeom, and J. F. Havens, all of this creek, have bought a Chalmers-Taylor threshing machine and will be ready for threshing in a short time.

Rev. H. H. Little preached at the Murphy school house on last Saturday and Sunday. There was a large attendance, and five were received by baptism.

Crops are looking well in this neighborhood. Farmers are principally done plowing, and are cutting their grass, which is an average crop.

The two stores at this place were locked up some time ago by the Sheriff for debt, and just when they will be opened I am not able to tell.

There has been so much changing of property at this place since I have been sick that I will not attempt to give the changes.

Miss Louisa Murphy will commence school at the Murphy school house this morning, and Joseph Stamper will commence at this place.

ON THE WING.

West Liberty Wins.

As we were up early Monday morning, we saw in front of Maxey & Kendall's store quite an amount of blood, and later we learned that boys, not gentlemen, had been up late at night and had gotten into a row and cut with knives. There were also some drunken parties on the street at the same hour, and the conduct of some of them had been enough from the rumor. What kind of officers have we? what kind of trustees? what will become of our town if matters continue longer?

The Morgan County Messenger did not appear last week, but we believe he is non-arrival of paper the cause. The editors of this paper are trying very hard to get subscribers, and we think much interest in their work. May they prosper.

The Methodist Conference convened at this place last Friday and adjourned Sunday with a small attendance, but much interest manifested.

I hear several talking against the would-be new Constitution. We doubt if there is a majority in this section for it or no.

Maytown Mistakes.

The citizens of this town and vicinity have taken steps in the right direction preparatory for the Hazel Green Fair by organizing the Maytown Training association, with Mr. Stephen Swango president, and C. W. Clark secretary. A committee of five was appointed by the president to make the location and secure the same, and report at the next meeting.

Mr. Sinclair, of New York, traveling salesman for J. C. Ayer & Co., spent Saturday and Sunday in town.

Miss Sabina Taulbee, of your town, paid Miss Loney Sample a pleasant visit Sunday. Please find enclosed cash for one new subscriber to THE HERALD.

Died, last week, infant child of A. C. and Rebecca Swango.

Mrs. W. W. Swango is quite sick.

An Important Correction.

Through a piece of gross carelessness the card of P. R. Phillips, in our Fair catalogue reads, "with J. M. Robinson & Co." and we have been informed by Bro. & Co. We hope all interested will note the correction, and make due allowance for a rush of work night and day for a month past.

PROFIT LODGE, F. & L. U.

Tribute of Respect to Nannie E. Hampton.

At a called meeting of Profit Lodge, No. 302, F. & L. U., held June 27, 1891, for the purpose of paying the last respects to Nannie E. Hampton, who died June 24, 1891. Her remains were laid to rest in the old church yard on Grassy Creek.

The following committee was appointed, Jerry Profit, A. F. Johnson and Jas. Buchanan, who reported the following, which was on motion adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased our heavenly father in his wisdom to call from labor on earth to the realms of everlasting refreshments on high, our beloved sister, Nannie E. Hampton, be it resolved:

1. That we drop the tear of sympathy over the grave of our departed sister. We tender our fervent condolence to the grief-stricken family in this their darkest hour of bereavement.

2. That in the death of our sister the F. & L. U. has lost a faithful and worthy member, the community an honorable and useful citizen, and her family a devoted and loving wife and mother.

3. That these resolutions be published in the HAZEL GREEN HERALD and a copy be sent to Thomas Hampton, the husband of the deceased, and all other papers friendly to the organization.

Death of Judge John S. Mahan.

On last Thursday morning, the 9th inst., Hon. John S. Mahan died at his home in this city of heart failure.

About the hour of 3 o'clock A. M. his wife awoke and found the Judge sitting on the side of the bed. He was gasping for breath and articulating "Oh Lord, and when his wife asked him what was the matter he simply sank back into his arms. From that time Judge Mahan never spoke, and about 5 o'clock, surrounded by his sorrowing family and friends and neighbors, who had been hastily summoned, his spirit took its flight—Beattyville Enterprise, July 10.

The more the new Constitution is discussed the more it is caused.

If any man can see his way clear to vote for the new Constitution, amen say we; but our eyesight is not good enough to see that way.

How will the poor housewife like to see her chickens running about the yard with tax-gates attached? The new Constitution taxes poultry.

The new Constitution is a matter of vast interest to the people of this section, as its adoption will deter, if not destroy, all prospects for development.

Will the poor woman who has toiled and saved to buy her sewing machine, hurry the men by her household out to vote for an instrument that imposes a tax upon that useful article?

We wish to go on record as being against the new Constitution for the very reason that THE HERALD is for the people and believes the new Constitution to be against their interests.

The new Constitution makes the Secretary of State an elective office. In event of a Republican Secretary and a Democratic Governor, or vice versa, we would have a nice kettle of fish, wouldn't we?

Will some one arise and tell the people what corporation or what bank is opposing the new Constitution? Ever and anon we hear it asserted that the bank oppose it, but the evidence does not point that way.

Under the old Constitution the poor man has property exempted to the value of $750, besides pigs and poultry. Under the new one only $250 is exempt, and he pays tax on both pork and poultry. Is it hard to see how he'll vote? Not very!

We wish week make room for the expressions of a few of the best papers in the State on the new Constitution, and could fill our paper with like expressions from the leading journals. They scent danger to the people and warn them against it.

Under Sec. 227 of the new Constitution the Railroad Commissioner may relieve railroads from the operations of that section, and it might have done as much for the farmer by allowing the Commissioner of Agriculture to relieve him from the provisions of Sec. 176. But it doesn't all the same.

A prominent Alliance man in this county has 30,000 acres of mineral and timber lands contracted, but the parties wrote to him that they would not buy at any price if the new Constitution were adopted. And this is an instance of what may be expected should that instrument become the organic law.

Some of the advocates of the new Constitution would have the people believe that all who oppose the adoption of that instrument are born fools. They remind us of the lunatic who on the way to the asylum pointed out a crowd and said to his guards, "Did you ever see so many crazy people together before?" We hope this will need no diagram.

Col. Robert W. Woolley, of Louisville, says of the new Constitution: "If there were an open clause in that instrument by which the people could correct its errors as fast as they may be discovered the proposed Constitution should receive a most careful consideration, but the 'open clause' it contains is a closed clause, and is a sham and a delusion."

Hon. John G. Carlisle, than whom there is not a brainer or more brilliant man in this or any other State, opposes the adoption of the new Constitution. In a recent letter to Hon. J. Stoddard Johnston, he says: "In my opinion it would be a great mistake to adopt the proposed Constitution as it now stands," and to Judge Menzies, of Covington, he said: "Its adoption would prove a serious injury to Kentucky."

Hon. Leslie T. Applegate, Delegate to the Constitutional Convention from Pendleton county, is opposed to the adoption of the new Constitution and is making speeches against it. He is for the present Constitution with an open clause, and thinks if the new one is defeated the old one may be thus amended. In the language of the Courier-Journal, uttered only recently, "Let us cling to the old Constitution."

CONSTITUTION CLIPPINGS.

It is Against Farmers.

The advocates of the new Constitution claim that it is the farmer's and poor man's Constitution. Now, let's see if it is. Take the question of taxes. Under the old Constitution the following property is exempt from taxation: Fifty dollars' worth of cattle, provisions for the family for one year, your poultry, your growing crops, $250 worth of household goods, $250 worth of farming implements, $50 worth of sewing or knitting machines, all articles made by family for family use, and all your books.

Under the new Constitution the Assessor will list everything you have, from your newly hatched chicken to your reaping machine—including your garden and all growing crops. After having listed everything on your premises he deducts $250 and you pay taxes on the remainder. Yet Dr. Hampton and others call it the "poor man's Constitution."—Milton Free Press.

Poor Men Should Read It.

Every poor man should remember that under the present law his cow, his pig, his chickens, his plow, his hoe, his wagon, his harness, his bed, his bedding, his provisions for a year, his family bible, his sewing machine, his rag carpets and several other things are exempt from tax-gatherers, while under the new Constitution everything will have to be put in except $250 worth. If you want proof of this read Section 176 of the new Constitution, and then borrow a copy of General Statutes, or if you can't do that call at the County Clerk's office and ask him to let you see one of those yellow tax blank books. Let us say, for example, you own a cow, a pig, a chicken, you investigate this matter thoroughly and see what you are about. If you make a mistake it will be too late to kick after the thing is done.—Caldwellburg Democrat.

Won't Be Ought to It.

A friend of ours said to us a few days ago that there were many things in the new Constitution he did not like, but that there were some good things in it that he did like, and he thought he would vote for it. This reminds us of the rats that stand around the trap and look at the good corn lying within, and for the good they hope to get out of the corn they make up their minds to go in, and when they find the corn gone and the wire door down, they squeal and rush against the wires that hold them until death comes. All who wish to can go in, but for us we shall choose to stay on the outside.—Carlisle Mercury.

It Increases Courts and Costs.

The London Mountain Echo gives as one reason for favoring the new Constitution that it reduces the number of courts. There are now twenty-nine court districts, including all Circuit, Common Pleas, Chancery and Criminal courts. The new Constitution provides for circuits not to exceed one for every 60,000 of population. Kentucky's population is 1,300,000. That authorizes thirty-three districts, an increase of four and that number will be required in order to make the mountain districts small enough to allow three terms of court every year.—Courier-Journal.

They Will Have Much to Regret.

It is our judgment that the new Constitution will entail much upon the State that the people will regret. On that point the Courier-Journal has spoken in no uncertain tones. It has pointed out its objections with specifications. Questioning the motive of none, giving the most ample and candid testimony to the intelligence and disinterestedness of gentlemen favoring the new Constitution, it has claimed the same right to have its motives, in taking an opposite view, respected.—Clinton Democrat.

A Humbug and a Fraud.

It may be accepted by the people, and its iniquities may be voted good; nevertheless even popular endorsement can not keep it from being a humbug and a fraud. And the moment who goes to the polls in August and votes the straight ticket, and then records himself as against the new Constitution, will not only have performed a service to his party, but he will have entered his name in the list of those who are opposed to unequal taxation and despotic laws.—Williamstown Public Opinion.

A Very Serious Objection.

If the new Constitution is adopted, mine owners will have to submit to any changes that the railroads may choose to make for marketing their coal; by that Constitution they are restrained from building and operating roads for themselves.—Middlesboro Herald.

Has ample facilities for doing a general banking business. Solicits deposits, makes collections, gives prompt and careful attention to all business entrusted to it, and extends to its customers the most liberal accommodations consistent with correct banking business.

Bankers Don't Fight It.
Has any man heard of a railroad official, or a banker, going out to make speeches against the adoption of the new Constitution? But we do find a great many railroad attorneys, some of whom were members of this convention, who are very much interested in securing its adoption. This is a significant fact and one worthy of the consideration of the people. Lawyers are not apt to neglect the interest of their best clients upon whom they rely for support.—Caldwellburg Democrat.

Not for Our Best Interests.

We are opposed to the adoption of the new Constitution because we do not believe it is for the best interests of the people, and not because the Courier-Journal, or Mr. Brown, or somebody else is for or against it. It is an easy matter for Mr. Brown to announce that he will vote for it, because his opponent, Mr. Wood, the Republican nominee, is for it, thus eliminating the question from the canvass.—Richmond Clinax.

Time For Action.

The time for discussion is merging in the time for action. It is right that the dangers to Kentucky's progress should be pointed out and the good work should not cease. But the time for perfecting organized opposition is here; the way to the polls should be plainly marked, and votes cast against the proposed Constitution from the opening to the close.—Covington Commonwealth.

Read the new Constitution. Four men out of five in this county after carefully reading it and comparing it with the old are against it.—Estill Eagle.

The "ringsters" and "bosses" fear the coming political storm. They have tried to stay the movement by attacking it, and now they hope to weaken it by resorting to the cowardly and unwise practice of attacking a man with whom they are not acquainted; with whom they have never spoken; with whom they have no affiliation, and who, so far as their knowledge goes, is a stranger.

NOTES.

The next meeting of the 10th Congress at District Union will convene at Jackson, Breathitt county, Ky., on the 24th day of August instead of the 23rd day in October as heretofore notified in THE HERALD. L. K. KASH, Sec. & Treas. 10th C. D. U. Omer, Ky., Jan. 26, 1891.

Public Speaking.

Hon. Wm. M. Beckner of Clark county will speak at Pine Grove, near Esq., Ky., July 27, on one of the P. M., on the adoption of the new constitution. The Morgan County Union will convene at the same point at 10 o'clock, A. M., same day. A large and full representation is expected. Representatives of the Peoples party will also be present and explain why it is that they should vote for the poor man's ticket and "home and country" and not come all, listen and then take their choice.

Important Notice.

We are just in receipt of the new semi-annual passport for the July (1891) term, which will be sent to the Secretary on receipt of the dues for the July semi-annual term from each county. Sub-Secretaries will please collect and forward the dues from their respective lodges to the county secretary who will forward same to me as per blank furnished on receipt of which the new word will be sent to each county secretary. Brethren, be prompt so your county will not be behind with the new work. Fraternally, B. F. DAVIS.

The New Constitution.

In my former article, or rather in the first part of this article, my object is not clearly defined in regard to chartered rights. I intended to say that these rights are under the present Constitution become a contract between the State and the corporations, and thereby render them immune from any legal power. But the new instrument makes all charters revocable by the proper authority, for always or some of such rights. There surely can be no wrong in requiring corporations to observe the purpose for which they are created under the new law, by some that corporations cannot purchase land, etc., they are mistaken. Any corporation can purchase as they desire except common carrier companies, etc. Some get the exemption clause mixed with statutory exemptions, which have no connection with each other whatever. The Constitution only exempts from tax, and does not interfere in any way with exemptions from sale for debt. Our prohibition friends sometimes think they will be ruined by Sec. 22, where special legislation is forbidden, but if they will only study Sec. 23, they will understand it thoroughly, they will there find that a general law will be enacted that will be, not only specific, but in advance of what we now have, and all without the unnecessary complications incident to special legislation, which has become a great incubus on the Legislature and a tremendous burden on the State treasury. The universal cry from all parts of our grand old State rang in the ears of the Convention day after day. "Please relieve us from the local and special legislation and laws, if it be in your power." And now, dear friends, you who have honored me by dearest wishes, please consider with the great work you called us to perform, and if, as a whole it is superior to the old, defective instrument with that curse of humanity, "human slavery" in it, vote for the new; if not, retain the old relic of barbarism, and thereby send us back, like little boys, to do our work over.

As ever yours, J. E. QUICKNELL.

"Money to Loan and Farms to Rent."
I recently noticed an instructive and interesting article in the Home Sentinel, of Wingo, Ky., which I will partially reproduce that the readers of our department in THE HERALD may have the benefit of it.

"We have been traveling through most of the Western States recently with our eyes and ears wide open to see what was to be seen and hear what was to be heard. In every town, great and small, are to be seen these two signs, 'Money to Loan' and 'Farms to Rent.' They are hung in the windows of banks; at the entrances of law offices; over the doors of insurance companies, and on the bulletin boards of real estate dealers.

"Money to Loan and Farms to Rent."
"There is a sort of strange and fearful fascination to the words, a good deal as it is to those of some silver-tongued preacher who talks of 'Death' and 'Hell.' The words have a weird ring to them like the 'clamor and the clangor' of Poe's iron-throated bells.

"We had occasion to wait a whole hour for a belated train along the railroad tracks of the night in a little town in Missouri. The air was cold and the wind was making doleful music with a dozen or more of these swinging signs, proclaiming to the world, 'Money to Loan and Farms to Rent.' Across the street was the country house, a place of refuge from the cold and the wind, and the fireproof branches of the surrounding trees. Within the fireproof branches of the surrounding trees was found the record of the whole story. Creak, creak, creak, went the signs, and what a tale they told of the 'Money to Loan' and 'Farms to Rent' of the past. They told of a life full of hope and ambition. Then in an unfortunate hour their feet began to slip, and the battle with Shylock began. Day by day the rope tightened; year by year the load grew heavier; the young man has grown gray, his straight shoulders have become bent with hard work, his eyes have lost the lustre of youth, his footsteps have lost their elasticity. He has spent the full strength of his manhood struggling with 'that mortgage.' No use. The struggle is hope lost. The road began with the sign, 'Money to Loan.' It ended with the sign, 'Farms to Rent.' They have been the guide-board of the young man's whole life-journey. The man who had a fine, comfortable home; though he may have been, as our scheming money getters suggest—did all the real hard work is either at work by the day, or has gone over the hill to the poor house, while the man who had 'Money to Loan' and now has the 'Farms to Rent' is living in a comfortable home of his own just a few steps down the street.

Presently a fresh gust of wind shakes up the creaking signs again, and their renewed vigor turns our thoughts in a new direction. We think of the thousands who are asleep at this midnight hour within a radius of perhaps twenty miles. With tomorrow's rising sun they will begin their daily toil in the field with the hope of a bountiful crop and a good price so that they can 'lift the mortgage.' But these creaking signs seem to laugh like so many devils at the hope which sustains the poor teller's heart."

Changes of Climate.

Kill more people than is generally known. Particularly in this case in instances where the constitution is delicate, and among our immigrant population seeking new homes if the deliver in those ruins may find and old signs of similar import as "Money to Loan" and "Farms to Rent." And when I look up among the stars I wonder if the winds which set those signs to creaking are messengers from some unseen God bearing anthems which shall be written in the downfall of the American Republic. As sure as the night follows the day, as sure as death comes to every mortal man, so surely does the sign "Farms to Rent" follow that of "Money to Loan." The one is the practical and logical result of the other, and when signs of "Farms to Rent" are found in abundance a nation is rapidly falling into decay and ruin. Let the future historian who records the destinies of the American Republic not forget those two signs and commonplaces of the land to day, "Money to Loan" and "Farms to Rent." Fraternally, S. L. KASH, Sec'y 10th Dist. of Ky.
